PRIVACY POLICY

The purpose of this policy is to establish the principles governing TABofC's use of the personal information you have provided.

Technical Associates Board of Certification (TABofC) respects the privacy of its candidates and is committed to ensuring the confidentiality of all personal data collected.

As a provider of vibration analyst certification, TABofC is required to collect specific information on its applicants. Additional information such as phone numbers and email addresses enables TABofC to notify certificate holders of significant developments such as approaching expiration dates. TABofC maintains only information knowingly provided by the candidates that is needed to function as a certification body.

Individuals can request to review their personal information on file at TABofC and correct any omissions or errors.

You may contact the TABofC Certification Manager for additional information regarding management policy of personal information.
